MRS. JACKSON'S "RAMONA" SHILL LIVES.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 9 (Special).-The Editor of "The San Jacinto Gazette" says he has found the only real "Ramona," the original of Helen Hunt Jackson's novel of the same name, at San Jacinto, as well as the men who killed "Alessandro." He says Mrs. Jackson spent some time in the Hermet Vaffey at the house of C. H. Thomas, who now is and for thirty years past has been a resident there, and from the Thomas family she obtained much of the material from which she fashloned her interesting story. The marriage of "Alessandro" and "Ramonn," their flight to the San Jacinto Mountains, his "borrowing" a white man's horse and his death at the hands of the white men are said to be actual occurrences, well known at San Jacinto. The wift or squaw of the Indian killed still lives in Coahult, and is called "Ramoan," by everybody, athough that is not her real name. Her character is said to be dissolute in the extreme. She is short and shrewd, knows of her notoriety and makes merchandles of it. The alarge. and makes merchandise of it. The skyer nearby. The Indian killed is said to have been a worthless horse-third and utterly unlike the noble "Al'ssandro" of the story. "Sam Temple," or "Jim" Jarrar, who really shot and killed the Indian for stealing a horse, is not the wieked wretch described by the authorses, but only an average frontiersman. The San Jacinto Valley is now reached by a railroad, but when Mrs. Jackson was there it was reached by

The secretary submitted the report of the Clubhouse Committee, appointed to investigate the cost of securing a new and larger club-house. This committee consists of Arthur M. Sherwood, chairman; Edward King, Charles C. Beaman, George Blagden, John S. Eldridge, Henry S. von Duzer, Charles H. Russell, Edward L. Parris, Samuel H. Ordway, Lawrence E. Sexton and Amos T. It was therefore recommended to purchase fixed and erect a clubhouse similar in general arrangement for the Grober Club, at a cost not to exceed $60,000 Half of this amount it is proposed to raise by sub-cription among the members as a gift to the club. Interest on the mortgage for the rest, $60,000, and the expenses necessary to maintain it, was estimated at $0,470. As for location, the committee recommended several sites in Fifty-second-st., between Midison and Fourth sites in Flity-second-st., between Malison and Fourth aves., or another in Forty-fourth-st., between Flith and sixth aves. as coming within the limit of price. The committee was empowered to purchase for the club a suitable lot and to erect thereon a clubbonse, the character of which was to be within the discretion of two-thirds of the committee; or they may, if deemed expedient, lease a lot and build. But the committee was not authorized to take definite action in nursuance of the power given it until $30,000 is subscribed over and above any sum that may be obtained by mortrade or lean. After this sum is raised, mortrages may be placed on the property, not to exceed $40,000.
